The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

WHILE WE'RE WAITING for a clue to the mystery of the battle of Paris (just where is that fast-moving Yank armored force which already has captured Angers and Nantes in its race for the French capital?) the Russians are providing us with another first class mystery as the battle of the Vistula swells to its climax.

The tip comes from the Germans in their announcement that the Muscovites are developing a flanking movement west of the upper Narva river, that is, along the southern border of East Prussia. When you fit this bit into the jigsaw puzzle, you see that the Red forces, ostensibly—though perhaps as a ruse—are pursuing at the moment the same strategy employed by the Russian armies which met terrible disaster in East Prussia in the last war.

Back in 1914 the Russian plan for conquest of East Prussia was to advance with two armies, one to the north and the other to the south of the notorious Masurian lake region. The northern army attacked near the Insterburg gap, east of Königsberg, and flung the Germans back. Then the southern army drove up against the Germans in the Allenstein sector and precipitated the historic battle of Tannenberg in which Field Marshal Von Hindenburg inflicted a great defeat on the Central forces.

The aging Von Hindenburg had spent much of his long life studying the Masurian lakes. He used to torture his troops with grilling maneuvers each year in this inhospitable country. Folk regarded him

3 JAP SISTERS FACE TWO YEAR PRISON TERMS

Convicted of Conspiracy To Commit Treason In Aiding Germans' Escape

(By Associated Press)
DENVER, Aug. 11.—Three Japanese-American sisters accused of helping two German prisoners escape from internment camp were convicted by a U. S. district court jury today of conspiracy to commit treason, and were acquitted of treason charges.

Judge J. Foster Symes withheld imposition of sentence, which, under the law, may not exceed two years in prison and $10,000 fine. If they had been convicted of treason the penalty could have been death.

Defense Attorney Kenneth W. Robinson said he had not determined whether to seek a new trial or whether he will appeal.

The defendants—Mrs. Tsuruko "Toots" Wallace, 35; Mrs. Florence "Flo" Shive Otani, 33; and Mrs. Billie Shitara Taniguchi, 32—exhibited no emotion when the verdict, reached by the jury last night and then sealed, was read in court this morning.

Third Similar Trial
Symes told the jury he thought the verdict was "very fair," and added that he, too, believed the sisters innocent of the first count charging treason.

U. S. District Attorney Thomas J. Morrissey's only comment on the outcome of America's third treason trial in World War II was, "the jury has spoken."

In the other two treason cases of this war, Max Stephan, naturalized German of Detroit, was sentenced to hang for aiding in the escape of a Nazi flier interned in Canada. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. In the other, three Chicago couples—relatives and friends of one of eight German saboteurs spirited onto the Atlantic coast by submarine—were convicted of treason, but the verdicts were reversed. In a retrial, one defendant was convicted again.

In the Denver trial the government accused the sisters of furnishing maps, clothing and aid to Heinrich Haider and Herman August Loeschner in their flight from the Trinidad, Colo., internment camp last Oct.

Rush Blood by Plane In Attempt To Save Life of Ohio Lad, 4

(By Associated Press)
SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 11.—The first of two supplies of blood donated by persons who never heard of little four-year-old Jackie Krumholz until this week, was being tested today after being rushed here by airplane in a desperate effort to save the life of the lad who is suffering from lymphatic leukemia.

The first blood to arrive here was donated by George Dinetz of Brooklyn, Jackie, who has had five previous blood transfusions was expected to be given his sixth later today.

The other blood donation apparently was enroute by plane from Philadelphia.

Physicians had no definite assurance for Jackie's parents, however that either type of blood would save the boy's life.

Dinetz' daughter, four-year-old Norma Jean, apparently has been cured of a rare and deadly blood disease—erythroblastosis anemia—by transfusions of her father's blood.

Dr. Maurice Morison, the Dinetz child's physician, said there was no medical reason to believe that Dinetz's type "O" blood would cure or help a leukemia victim.

Meanwhile, Jackie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Krumholz, were hopeful that blood obtained from Mrs. Rose McMullin of Philadelphia also might be beneficial in treating the lad's malady.

Yesterday Mrs. McMullin gave blood and had it made into plasma. It is being flown to Springfield. She reportedly has a rare type helpful in treating anemia sufferers.

Meanwhile, at Cincinnati another type of leukemia was threatening the life of 4-year-old Judy Bering. Physicians had diagnosed her ailment as myelogenous leukemia and said she could live only a matter of weeks.

DRIVER BURNED IN TRUCK COLLISION

Two trucks were destroyed by fire at 6 p. m. yesterday following a collision at the intersection of Routes 18 and 46 in Austintown, in which the driver of one truck, Homer Grimes, 40, of Akron, received severe body burns.

Salem state patrolmen said Grimes was driving west on Route 18 when his truck collided with another driven by Burt Russell, 52, of New Bloomfield. Both vehicles caught fire and burned.

Grimes was trapped in his truck and severely burned before witnesses dragged him to safety. He was taken to the South Side hospital in Youngstown where his condition is reported as fair.

3 B-29S LOST IN NEW RAID

Fourth Superfortress Is Forced Down In Friendly Territory

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Three planes of the two forces of Superfortresses which struck targets in Sumatra and the Japanese homeland yesterday "are not accounted for, and one B-29 was forced down in friendly territory," the 20th Bomber command reported today.

Bombing results were "good" both at Palembang, in southern Sumatra, and at Nagasaki on the Japanese mainland island of Kyushu.

At Nagasaki the mission encountered enemy fighters although that occasion was "weak" and one of the Japanese planes was destroyed.

At Palembang there was no fighter opposition. Anti-aircraft fire was moderate or weak at both targets.

At least three enemy craft were destroyed in carrying out the missions under cover of darkness.

The Palembang attack, officially described as "the longest bombing mission ever undertaken," was directed against the Padjad refinery, whence comes a major portion of Japan's high octane gasoline.

The Nagasaki, Kyushu island raid stemmed from bases in China. Planes from bases of the Southeast Asia command struck Palembang.

Nagasaki is twelfth in size among Japanese cities. It has a population of more than 250,000, shipbuilding yards, aircraft plants, water and steam power equipment, generators, engines and steel products.

Battle For Guam Ends; Japanese Army Routed On New Guinea

By J. B. Krueger,
Associated Press War Editor
The Pacific war reached a new turning point today, launched auspiciously by the first Allied offensive bombing of the Philippines, more B-29 attacks on harried Japan, liberation

(By Associated Press)
AN ADVANCED BOMBER BASE OFF NEW GUINEA, Aug. 6.—(Delayed).—James Welch, North Lima, O., radio technician, was one of the bomber crew members who made the first bombing run on the Philippine islands today—the first American air raid on the islands since the fall of Corregidor in May, 1942, the Army announced.

of Guam and by a historic Roosevelt-MacArthur-Nimitz conference which may have set the U. S. course toward Tokyo itself.

The trip-hammer blows rained upon them from every quarter impelled the Japanese to begin work on a plan "for strengthening of domestic defense." The Japanese cabinet decided to outline such a plan by Aug. 15.

Superfortresses flying out of China yesterday bombed Nagasaki on Japan's home island of Kyushu, where planes are made. Another group of the sky giants based in Southeast Asia inflicted damage on the big oil installations at Palembang on Sumatra. Of the Nagasaki raid, Tokyo acknowledged that "the manner in which the enemy carried out his attacks was extremely fierce." The terse War department announcement said that the raids were "medium-sized."

Airdrome Blasted
Davao, chief Japanese base on Mindanao, southernmost of the Philippine islands, was bombed for the first time since Corregidor fell May 6, 1942, in three raids beginning Aug. 7. Gen. MacArthur's raiders, presumably flying from newly-won New Guinea area bases, caught Davao with its lights up, and smashed airdromes from which Japan could contest future landing attempts by Allied forces.

Simultaneously with news of this new blow MacArthur announced that Japan's trapped 18th army, once 60,000 strong, had been crushingly defeated, its remnants sent fleeing into New Guinea's mountains and toward by-passed Wewak. The 18th's casualties in the last month were estimated at 18,000 dead and wounded. As an army it had disintegrated.

Adm. Nimitz announced last night that Guam was now restored to U. S. control.

RAILROAD WORKER KILLED BY TRAIN

D. V. Deibel, of R. D. 1, Leetonia, was killed instantly at 11:40 p. m. yesterday when he walked into the path of a Pennsylvania railroad train west of the railroad crossing in Leetonia, while on his way home from work.

Although a railroad tower man said Deibel was walking east on the track and evidently started to cross to the other side as the train passed by, no one actually witnessed the accident.

The engineer of the train said he didn't see Deibel until he was directly in front of the engine. He added that Deibel may have been crossing the tracks when he was hit.

Born in Austria-Hungary, Deibel had resided with Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Blender, R. D. 1, Leetonia, for several years. He was employed as a section hand by the Erie railroad. There are no known relatives.

The body was taken to the Woods funeral home in Leetonia where service will be conducted later.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

NAVY MAN LONE GUAM SURVIVOR

42-Year-Old Oregonian Eluded Japs 31 Months; Hair Turned Grey

(By Associated Press)
U. S. PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 11.—Fortune's wheel came full circle today for Chief Radioman George Ray Tweed, 42-year-old Oregonian who outlasted Japanese squads remorselessly hunting him for 31 nightmare months on now-liberated Guam.

He escaped 10 days before the Americans invaded Guam July 20. His story and that of Guam's rescue were announced today simultaneously by the Navy yesterday.

From the day—Dec. 10, 1941—the Japanese overwhelmed a handful of Americans on the island, Tweed lived in precarious fight on the 250-square mile island far out in the Pacific. The persistent Nipponese hunted him like an animal. Capture, often near, would have meant death.

Behind him were burning memories of Navy and Marine friends who died, without retreat, in the stubborn but hopeless first defense of the island. He was sustained by the constant hope of rescue by advancing American forces.

The story he told after his rescue July 10, was related to the United States almost coincidentally with announcement that recapture of Guam had been contemplated.

Tweed had seen proud, cruel Japanese forces rolling to victory past his buddies' bodies. The conquerors' final remnants were ragged and emaciated; fleeing instead of fighting back.

Reunited With Family
Reinstated in the U. S. Navy and promoted from Radioman first class aboard the rescue ship, Tweed was returned to the United States.

He was reunited in San Diego, Calif., with his wife, Mary Francis Tweed, 27, and their sons, Ronald, 9, and Robert 3. They had not seen

Push Toward Seine Valley In New Drive

By GLADWIN HILL

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 11.—American forces which had knifed eastward of Le Mans to within a little more than 90 miles from the Paris suburb of Versailles, without meeting serious German opposition, were reported turning northward today in a scythe-like sweep threatening all the Germans south of the Seine.

British troops, supporting a Canadian-Polish thrust below Caen which appeared to be shaping a huge pocket in conjunction with the American drive, stormed into Thury-Harcourt, German stronghold on the Orne.

Field dispatches said the Americans, driving at least 10 miles beyond Le Mans, still had met no solid enemy resistance, but today's Allied communique announced the destruction of 15 German tanks by aircraft somewhere in the area.

There was no official confirmation at Supreme headquarters of various reports of striking progress past Le Mans, 110 miles southwest of Paris, which was captured two days ago, but it was obvious that the Paris-pointed spearhead there had the alternatives of swinging northward toward the English channel short of Paris, swinging south of the capital in an encircling move, or splitting and passing on both sides of it.

A swing northward of the scythe would threaten the rear of the Germans' stubbornly held swivel position below Caen and approximately 20 German divisions or remnants of divisions—upwards of 300,000 men. If the sweep crossed the Seine it would threaten the isolation of Le Havre and other channel ports as well as the rocket bomb coast.

Unofficial reports said other armored columns meanwhile had veered off to the southeast from Le Mans toward Orleans on the Loire below Paris.

(An NBC broadcast from France said Americans in this drive were attacking Chateaudun, 62 miles from Versailles and 30 miles from Orleans. Chateaudun is 52 miles east of Le Mans. The Brazzaville radio said there were reports Chartres was in Allied hands.)

Combat teams made rapid progress in the Brittany peninsula to the rear, completing the capture of the Loire river cities of Nantes and Angers, and wiping out all resistance except at one stronghold, the Citadel in St. Malo on the north coast, thus clearing up three of the six large centers of Nazi resistance on the Brittany rim.

The large-scale encirclement which thus appeared to be in the making would be far more disastrous to the Germans' whole defense of western Europe than simply pushing Rommel's line back to Paris and the Seine.

The British renewed pressure on their end of this huge maneuver by throwing a third bridgehead across the Orne river and storming to Thury-Harcourt, 15 miles below Caen.

Two other powerful battering rams, set up by the Canadian First army, were driving against Rommel's gun-studded anti-tank screen—one last reported within five miles of the German stronghold city of Falaise, 21 miles south of Caen, and the other thrust eastward in the Vimont area below Troarn.

THE REST OF MY LIFE WITH YOU

by Faith Baldwin

CHAPTER ONE

The taxi driver commented, "Hot, isn't it?" He pushed his battered cap back on his head and grinned at Judith. He wore a collarless shirt and his stringy neck was very brown. For ten days the appalling summer heat had lain like a smothering blanket over Manhattan.

Judith, getting into the cab, nodded cheerfully. She said, "But New York's always hot this time of year, isn't it?" She gave him an address on the East Side and leaned back against the cracked leather upholstery.

"You from out of town?" inquired the driver, a lonely and suspicious soul.

"I was born here," Judith told him amiably, "and I've lived here all my life—that is, up until five years ago."

The driver said, "It's a swell town, crazy, but swell." He brightened perceptibly. "Things," he added, "is looking up . . . I don't suppose you remember what happened to the taxi business back in twenty-nine."

Judith asked, "Aren't there a lot of new apartment houses in this district?"

He was not offended. A great many people didn't want to talk about twenty-nine, but this girl didn't look as if she could remember anything about it. She looked about seventeen or eighteen. She was prettier than any girl who had ridden with him and his cab in a month of Sundays. She looked cool in this torrid afternoon, in a lime-green linen suit and a shady hat . . . I wouldn't call her exactly red, he reflected.

Rotogravure baby. He knew 'em. He'd seen 'em, around the hotels and night clubs. Very occasionally they rode with him. He knew the type. Sleek and polished, the eyes were smooth and where they should be, the expensive tan—it cost money to get that peachy-tint—the slim legs and ankles, the right gloves and shoes. Maggie was always kidding him, the way he speculated about his passengers, but he liked to tell her about them when he got home. After all, you couldn't just drive a taxi day in and day out, and not get something out of it besides your living.

He drew up at the apartment house. It had a severe facade and a large, very sober doorman. Judith got out and the driver leaned out to smile at her because he knew she'd smile back. Friendly. The best breed were always friendly. Only the little so-and-sos who weren't really sure of themselves, and who didn't know the right answers, were afraid to smile at a taxi driver.

"I'd love to see Matthew," Judith told Mary.

Judith paid him, tipped him properly, and went into the big lobby, cavernous and cool. A brisk young man said, "Mrs. Norman . . . ? Eleventh floor—whom shall I announce?"

The elevator went swiftly upward and Judith rang a designated bell. A pleasant maid opened the door and took her into the living room. The Venetian blinds were drawn and a green, translucent light filtered into a room cool with pastel chintzes, bright with peonies, and stripped of the cluttering possessions which look comfortable by firelight but are hot and dust catching in summer.

Judith sat down in a deep chair and waited. Presently Mary Norman came in from another room, and Judith thought despairingly, I wonder if I'll ever learn to walk like that?

She rose and said, "Mrs. Norman, I—"

"Judith! Judith Lambert. My dear child, let me look at you!" Mary took Judith's hands and swung them. She said, "You haven't grown much in five years."

Judith laughed. "At fifteen," she said, "I was five foot five, and convinced I'd be a giant."

Mary said, "Take off your hat; it's so hot."

Judith obeyed. The greenish light touched her hair, the color of a thrush. She asked, "Have I improved?"

"Enormously," Mary answered. "When I last saw you you had braces on your teeth . . . and now, tell me all about yourself."

"Mother," Judith said, "sent all sorts of messages. Love and all that and why don't you write more often and why won't you come out to California?"

"I wish I could," cut in Mary, "sometimes I will. I can't leave Matthew . . ."

"How is he?" asked Judith. "I meant to ask before."

"He's fine, working very hard . . . Here comes Kate with some iced tea . . . I hope you aren't on a diet? Nellie made some sugar cookies for you, she remembered you liked them."

"You still have Nellie?" queried Judith. "Wonderful! I must go out and see her. I love your place, Mrs. Norman."

"I like it, too."

"I was so afraid you'd be out of town—most everyone is in summer."

"We have a little place in Connecticut," Mary told her, "but Matthew has so little free time that I stay here, as a rule. Even if I'm away, the apartment is always open so he can come to it when he wishes."

Judith lifted her glass, the ice tinkled coolly and the fresh mint was pungent.

"I'd love to see him," she said. "You will, of course," Mary beamed with animation. "His very next night off."

Judith shook her bright head regretfully. "I'm afraid I can't," she said. "I'm going to Aunt Helen's in Easthampton this afternoon, and then on to the Cape . . . after that I'm going to Maine. We have friends who have a place there, and they are driving me back to San Francisco. I don't suppose I'll be in town again until then."

"Your mother is well?" asked Mary. "Her letters are always so cheerful but . . ."

"She hasn't got over Dad's death, if that's what you mean," said Judith soberly. "Not so much his going, but the manner of it, I suppose."

They were silent for a moment, remembering. Then Judith sighed. "It seems so long ago—I mean when you rented the cottage and we were next door to each other all those summers, and Matthew home." She laughed. "Did you know that I had a dreadful crush on him? My very first. But he never even knew I existed."

"Of course he did," declared Mary consolingly.

"Just as a nuisance," said Judith; "the little girl in the big house always hanging around, asking him if he'd play tennis or go sailing or fishing. But he was nice to me, I'll say that much for him."

him since October, 1941, when they left Guam.

"It was a glorious reunion," said Mrs. Tweed, adding she never doubted that her husband would return, although after two years' searching the Japanese had listed him officially as dead.

During his ordeal the Portland, Ore., navy man's hair silvered and he lost 30 pounds. He gained back 10 of these in the first five days after his rescue, by a combatant ship off Guam, 10 days before the American landings. He lived on rainwater and food obtained in night forays.

Tweed said the Japanese landed on Guam Dec. 9, after two days' bombing and strafing.

Escaped By Bare Seconds
"We had so few guns, so little ammunition," he said, "there wasn't much we could do to defend. We had only about 200 Marines a few scattered naval personnel and the island defense company."

With a buddy, Tweed escaped to the "bush" after the American governor ordered surrender on the third day.

The Japanese warned that all Americans who gave themselves up within 30 days would be interned in Japan; others found later would be killed.

Tweed's companion and three other Navy men they met all were captured and killed by the Japanese.

"Several times they learned where I was hiding, but each time I managed to escape, once by less than a minute," Tweed said.

Tweed was dressed in Robinson Crusoe rags when rescued, but soon changed to a new chief radioman's uniform.

Outdoor Activity Increases Indoor Job Efficiency

By ALICIA HART

Are you a lazybones kind of vacationer who won't play tennis, swim or battle with a shuttlecock? Well, at least get out of doors. Once you're out, settle for some kind of recreational activity that will give you more exhilaration and a mental release from all the things that you have to think about; all the worries that harrow a mind during wartime.

You'll come back to work with fewer furrows etched on your brow and in finer physical fettle for your job, if you'll go camping, for instance, or picnicking; will play hopscotch or shuffleboard with Junior; will shoot arrows, even if you miss the bull's-eye every time; or play croquet with grandpa, even if he thinks you're no shakes as a partner.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The "official guide" to the Army Air Force has been banned from sale at post exchanges because it carries a pen portrait of President Roosevelt captioned "commander in chief of the Army and Navy. The Herald Tribune today quoted Maj. Gen. Alexander Surles, Army Bureau of Public Relations chief, as confirming this.

The report says 525,000 copies of the book, regarded as one of the finest guides produced by the Army, bear the President's picture, and that none of these can be sold at post exchanges.

An edition of 600,000 copies which the President's portrait has been distributed to soldiers, the Herald Tribune says, and the ban on the other editions was invoked because of possible violation of title five of the Soldiers' Vote law.

OFFICIAL OF WPB ASKS 10 BILLION U. S. ROAD SYSTEM

SAN FRANCISCO — A $10,000,000 system of nine super-highways including mile-square airports at 18 intersections and with war veterans getting preferential hiring in building them is one of Maury Maverick's answers to the problem of postwar re-employment.

Maverick, vice-chairman of the War Production Board, chairman of the Smaller War Plants Corp. and former congressman from San Antonio, Tex., made the proposal during a recent inspection tour of West Coast war plants.

His plans, Maverick said, "will furnish constructive employment directly and indirectly to 2,000,000 people. It will save the West and strengthen our nation's economy. It will join together all parts of the nation and be of tremendous strategic military value."

Three Cross-Country Routes

Under the WPB official proposal the highway system would comprise three transcontinental routes and six north-south arteries. Each road would be divided with three lanes of traffic in each direction. They would go directly through major cities on their routes with a system of spurs linking the superhighways with the cities.

A minimum of one airport at each mile square would be located at or adjacent to each of the 17 intersections of such highways, one with the other," Maverick said.

"There shall be a stipulation in each building contract that the contractor shall employ first, veterans and second, unemployed men between the ages of 50 and 60 of the region in which his unit of the highway is built. This will mean constructive, honest employment for many returning soldiers who will be among the best workers possible. And by giving opportunity to those unemployed between ages of 50 and 60 we will to a large extent meet the problem of the older people in industry."

Proposed Routes

1. Originate in southern California running east to Savannah, Ga., via El Paso, San Antonio, Baton Rouge and Mobile.
 2. Run from San Francisco to Wheeling, W. Va.; Uniontown, Pa.; at park, Duckwater, Nev.; Huntington, Utah; Denver; Phillipsburg, Mo.; Springfield, Ill.; Indianapolis; Wheeling, W. Va.; Uniontown, Pa.; and Cumberland, Md.
 3. Originate in two roads from Seattle and Portland to Salem, Ore. and run to Albany, N. Y., and Boston via Yellowstone national park, Rapid City, S. D.; Chicago and Cleveland.
- Westernmost of the north-south arteries would link Mexico and the Alcan highway via San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and British Columbia.
- Two other of the north-south trunks would have Mexican connections and run from Texas to the Canadian border. One would start at El Paso and run through El Morro national monument in New Mexico and Salt Lake City. The other would have its origin near San Antonio and go north through Hebart, Okla.; Pierre, S. D.; and Bismarck, N. D.
- Another would parallel parts of the Mississippi-Missouri river system running from Baton Rouge to Canada via Jackson, Miss.; Memphis; Chicago and Milwaukee. A road from Pensacola, Fla., to Buffalo would traverse Atlanta, Jonesboro, Tenn.; Charleston, W. Va.; and Pittsburgh.
- Similar in strategic importance to the San Diego-Alcan highway, Maverick said, would be a road paralleling U. S. Route 1 from near Miami to the Canadian border above Concord, N. H., via St. Petersburg, Fla.; Reidsville, Ga.; Columbia, Raleigh; Richmond; point between Baltimore and Washington; New Brunswick, N. J.; Springfield, Mass.; and Concord.

Cite $40,000 Loss In Refinery Blaze At Covington, Ky.

(By Associated Press)
COVINGTON, Ky., Aug. 11.—Flames, fed by thousands of gallons of war-precious 100-octane gasoline and crude oil, burned steadily on a 20-foot square table of earth at nearby Bromley, Ky., today, while an official of the Standard Oil Co., owner of the refinery property, said the loss might aggregate $40,000.

S. R. Bolles, superintendent of Standard Oil's Latonia, Ky., property, who estimated the loss, said upward of 12,000 gallons of aviation gasoline and crude oil were in two 10-inch pipelines connecting a pumphouse, where the fire started, and huge storage tanks high on a hill overlooking the scene. Shutoff valves were located near the tanks and the flames were fed by fuel remaining after they were closed.

Fire Chiefs Frank A. Northcutt of Covington and Eli Gibson of Bromley, termed the blaze the most fantastic and potentially dangerous in their 25 years of service. So did Assistant Chief Henry Haberle of Bromley.

A 10x10 foot asbestos blanket, hung across a shallow gully leading from the fire-table, proved the most effective weapon as torrents of still-burning fuel-covered water cascaded from the pumphouse floor. The blanket skimmed off the fire.

Standard oil officials were quoted as believing a spark from a motor in the pumphouse ignited a quantity of oil or gasoline.

Files Voting Petitions For Sons in Armed Forces

EAST LIVERPOOL, Aug. 11.—Mrs. Lucy A. Haight, a six-star mother, made certain today that five of her sons in the armed forces have an opportunity to vote at the Nov. 7 election in Columbiana county.

She filed applications under the Ohio soldier voting law for three soldier-sons, Pfc. Belmar E. Haight and Corp. Technician Lawrence Haight, who are in the European area, and Pfc. James N. Haight, stationed at Newburgh, N. Y., and also for two navy sons, Seaman First Class Charles O. Haight and T. M. Second Class Paul L. Haight who are in the South Pacific area.

A sixth son, also in the European war theater, is too young to vote.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Good morning, Doc. Your good wife tells me you're working night and day now that so many of the younger doctors are in the army."

"That's right, Judge, and I'm glad I'm still able to do it. Had a long letter from Harry... that bright young fellow I was breakin' in to take over my practice. He said the boys in the service are getting the best medical care of any armed force in our history. They really should with all those brilliant doctors and plenty of supplies to work with."

"Speaking of supplies, Doc, not many people realize that a large part of the alcohol required to make the medical supplies that are being used right this minute to alleviate pain, combat infection and save human lives, is produced by the beverage distilling industry. For nearly two years this entire industry has been working night and day producing nothing but alcohol for the government's program."

"Nobody knows better than I, Judge, what an important contribution to our war effort that has been."

Library Professor Declares Children Like Horror Tales

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND — Junior doesn't mind reading a gruesome story—in fact, he enjoys it because it balances his feeling of weakness in the presence of adults, according to Miss Harriet G. Long, assistant professor of library science at Western Reserve university.

Prof. Long, an authority on children's literature, says that stories such as those written by the brothers Grimm are not gruesome to children at all because they like stories of warriors and giants.

"Books written for children today show a decided improvement over those written during the last century," she believes. "They show a much more enlightened attitude toward children."

The older books, Prof. Long asserts, tried to point a moral; they tried to make a little man out of a boy.

"In the older days adults did not understand as they do today that childhood is a stage of growth, and that children are entitled to enjoy their childhood," she says.

Professor Long has assembled one of the most unusual collections of children's books ever placed on display in this part of the country at Western Reserve's library.

The books, assembled at the university since 1925, contrast the old and new in fairy tales, nursery rhymes and other literature for children. They number about 350.

Children always will derive enjoyment from Mother Goose rhymes, which were not created for children but usually to express some political sentiment, Prof. Long says. Rhymes are accepted by children because they "bounce" and have simple stories to tell.

She observes that the taste for highly imaginative stories in children begins at about the sixth year.

Before that, children are more interested in realities and are busy getting their feet on the ground.

PORTLAND, Ore. — Municipal Judge John B. The judge sat down and played until the defendant reached the third note. Then the judge clapped his hands over his ears and fined the singer $15.

POLITICAL GROUPS FORM BATTLELINES FOR FALL ELECTION

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Aug. 11 — Both the Republican and Democratic state platform frames are beginning to form battle lines for the fall campaign.

The 100-member Republican advisory committee met yesterday for the first time and promptly turned over to a 12-man sub-committee the job of making the first draft of the program on which their candidates will wage the fight for votes.

Arrangements for the Democratic state platform committee likewise were made yesterday by the state executive committee.

The Democrats decided to hold their platform convention here Sept. 11 and 12 and their keynote speaker will be Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland, the party's gubernatorial nominee.

Clarence H. Kniseley of Bainbridge, former state treasurer, will be permanent chairman of the convention, which will be held in the Neil house.

The Republican platform advisory committee, in passing to the 12-member group the job of drafting the platform, also passed along authority to hold any hearing necessary.

When the first draft is made it will be referred back to the main advisory group, headed by Ray Bliss of Akron, and then will be submitted to the Republican state resolutions committee in session here Sept. 14.

Sub-committee members charged with drafting the platform are:

Bliss, State Reps. Paul Ballard of Jackson and Willis Cory of Seneca county, State Sens. Albert L. Daniels of Highland county, Fred R. Seibert of Auglaize county and Frank E. Whittemore of Akron, Speaker of the House William H. Heddens of Cincinnati, Mrs. Mary L. Forrest of Cleveland, Mrs. Madeleine Hoyt of Chillicothe, Mrs. Florence C. Morris of Toledo, Ward C. Cross of Ashtabula and Edward C. Stanton of Cleveland.

ATTITUDE GYRO AIDS ACROBATIC FLYING

NEW YORK — The attitude gyros, showing a plane pilot the position of his craft with reference to the earth, regardless of the complexity of his maneuvers, has been developed by the Sperry Gyroscope Co., makers of a long line of gyro flight instruments. The attitude gyro is adaptable to all types of planes.

In the past it has been impractical and unsafe to perform all acrobatic maneuvers without visual reference to the earth's surface. The attitude gyro, however, permits of any maneuver with precision and a high degree of safety.

Asks Families Not Quiz Veterans On War Deeds

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — When your son or daughter, father or uncle returns from serving overseas it is best to let memories alone, Dr. George E. Simpson, Pennsylvania State college's sociology professor, has suggested.

The returning serviceman is not interested in what has been, but what lies ahead, the sociologist said. Instead of the "tell me all about it" attitude, families should persuade veterans to use their war experiences toward civilian activities. He should be fully informed on community, political, and technological developments.

Veterans want to forget, that is why, Dr. Simpson stresses, they should be taken into the communities immediate problems instead of thrusting them into a "special" class because they have served in war.

U. S. Civil Service Exams Are Listed

Substitute railway postal clerks are needed for war service appointments, the United States Civil Service commission has announced. The positions pay a base salary of $1,850 for a 40-hour week, with additional compensation.

There is no closing date for applications to be made, but those filed before Sept. 4, will be tested before any filed at a later time. Further information and applications may be had from Local Secretary F. O. Heston at the post office.

ED PRODUCTION OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Acts To Encourage Larger Supply of Pork For Nation

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Favorable production prospects put War Food administration in a good today to loosen government production brakes on hogs to encourage a larger output of pork, meat cuts of which go back on the market Sunday.

The year's pig production is expected to be 10 per cent below last year's—a fact which will be reflected in the reduced supply of pork in the next six or eight months. The government expects that the production of hogs will be reduced because feed supplies would be cut back to the level of last year's production. The reduction in feed supplies would be implemented by government policies which made hog feed considerably less profitable than last year.

The feed situation now shows a sharp improvement. The department reported yesterday that a corn crop of 117,000 bushels, which would be the largest ever produced, is about 145,000,000 bushels. The year's bumper crop, the department said, would be 560,000,000 bushels, greater than the average of the last 10 years.

The corn crop will be supplemented by the largest wheat crop ever—a large portion of which will be diverted to livestock feed. Large crops of sorghums, oats and barley.

Production officials said the increased grain supply would sustain an increase in hog production. The question is whether with the prospect of an early end of the war, there would be a favorable market for the hogs when they reach market weight next year.

Producers are urging a relaxation in government price policies to assure them a favorable price next year. Without it, they say they can not afford to raise hogs which would be involved in production.

PACIFIC WAR

United States. Reconquest cost American dead and 6,033 other soldiers. The Japanese lost 10,971 men and an island within Superstition range of Japan, the Philippines and China. A few enemy prisoners were being dug out of the island.

Set Up Saipan Headquarters
The series of hard blows was followed by establishment of a new fleet and troop headquarters. Admiral Richmond K. Turner, first of the Marianas, was to fall. This meant the Navy was setting up an advance base 300 miles west of Pearl Harbor and right in Japan's watery rear.

After called the Marianas campaign "the greatest naval victory in United States ever won". That campaign breached Japan's inner defenses with the seizure of Guam, Iwo Jima and Tinian.

The background of the quick Pacific war stood the meeting at Pearl Harbor by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. There in three days they mapped strategy for the force Japan into unconditional surrender. It was MacArthur's first meeting with the president in seven years.

These forces fought hard to Hengyang before the Japanese could consolidate their hold on the important rail center. In the province other Chinese forces were at Japanese clinging to the road bases.

ing and showed promise of remaining that way.
The British heavy bombers struck at oil storage depots for U-boats at Bordeaux and La Pallice—the only bases left to Hitler's submarines which once fought the battle of the Atlantic from the Bay of Biscay coast.

Brest, Lorient and St. Nazaire, the off-battered lairs for the one-time terrors of the sea, are threatened so closely now by the American army that they are virtually useless to the enemy.

Bordeaux, at the mouth of the river Gironde, and well sheltered La Pallice, nearly 100 miles to the north, must supply and re-fit a large submarine force at a time when previous attacks on oil storage depots and rail and road communications have made it almost impossible for the enemy to bring up supplies.

By smashing what oil resources remain on the spot at the bases, RAF heavy bombers sought to make it even more difficult for the Germans to use many submarines either in the Atlantic or against Allied shipping to the invasion armies in France. The pens at La Pallice were hit several times Wednesday.

Halifax rained a great concentration of explosives on the railway junction of Dijon, 160 miles southeast of Paris. With railways farther north largely disorganized, this roundabout route from southwest Germany to the battlefield is vital to the enemy.

U. S. To Build More Planes for Jap Raids

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The government focused aircraft production on Japan instead of Germany today in a major shift which will release an estimated 120,000 aircraft workers by the end of this year.

Downward trends over the next 12 months were set for Liberator bombers, C-46 transports and Thunderbolt fighters, coinciding with growing emphasis on the new aerial scourges of Japan—the big Boeing B-29 which slammed again yesterday at the Japanese, and its new sister, the Consolidated B-32.

Twenty thousand persons will be released in the next 30 days, the War department estimated in ordering the cutback yesterday, and 34,000 aircraft jobs are waiting to absorb them.

Successes of the European invasion set the aircraft shift in motion, it was learned. The action was planned last May, but was held up until the advance into Fortress Europe and the impotence of the Luftwaffe demonstrated that the aircraft industry could safely be aimed at the Japanese empire.

Dante, great Italian poet, is most famous for his Divina Commedia, probably written between 1307 and 1321.

Teen-Age Boys Obtaining Draft Registration Cards

LISBON, Aug. 11—Is it patriotism or is it a racket? That's what Miss Grace Woodward, temporary chairman of the draft board, and Sheriff George Hays would like to know in regard to a number of teen-age youths who have raised their age several years and obtained draft registration cards.

Sheriff Hays said it is a racket conceived by the boys in order that they might evade curfew laws and obtain admission to places catering to persons over 18. A draft card is also proof of age when ordering drinks in beer joints.

Miss Woodward, who said the affair had been brought to her attention by parents of several of the youths, pointed out that the law provides a heavy penalty for any one obtaining a draft card under false pretenses.

Limit Fuel Oil Use

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—The Office of Price Administration today halted issuance of fuel oil rations for hot water, domestic heating or domestic lighting, if the householder or other applicant has use of electric equipment for these purposes.

If electric equipment is inadequate, ration will be reduced by the maximum amount which can be saved through the use of the electric equipment, OPA said.

Get Rid of 'Saber Rattlers' To Insure Peace, Ford's Advice

(By Associated Press) BIG BAY, Mich., Aug. 11—One of the major post war tasks, according to Henry Ford, will be to level off the far-reaching hatreds that have been created by the present world conflict.

The noted industrialist took time out from a vacation with Mrs. Ford at his summer lodge on the nearby Lake Superior shore to comment upon the progress of the war and the steps that must be taken to make it the last war.

"There can be no lasting peace where hatreds exist," he said, and added that "hatreds will continue to arise as long as the causes of war are not rooted out and exposed."

"Remember that this war was not brought on by men who work for their living. It was caused by the individuals—many of them, unfortunately, citizens of our own country—who profit from the manufacture of munitions and explosives."

Ford said he did not believe it would be necessary to dismember Germany after the war in order to prevent another conflict.

"Get rid of the militarists and the German people can live in peace with the rest of the world," he said. "But you can't get rid of the saber rattlers by cutting them off at the top; you will have to root out the philosophies that create them."

as daft on the subject, but when came to the showdown in East Prussia the Kaiser sent for the man of the lakes as the only general who knew that region.

Well, now, the Russians are more are driving against the East Prussian border east of the Insterburg gap, and the Hitlerites are counter-attacking with ferocity which in itself is recognition of the possibility that the Red army is trying to reach that strategic gateway. At the same time get the Russian flanking movement along the southern border, south of Tannenberg.

IT'S AN INTRIGUING picture, but in calling attention to its similarity I'm not suggesting that the Red generals are bent on duplicating the strategy of their war predecessors. There may be a trickerly about. Anyway, we must worry for fear the Muscovites may know the perils of the lake country.

The greatest danger to the Hitlerites in this situation, as I see it, lies in that flanking movement below East Prussia. One would expect the Russians to develop an effort to trap the Hitler army on its own "sacred soil" by the way, is one of history's greatest battlefields.

Such a Red drive would not only the East Prussian capital but Warsaw to the south. And the Polish capital is keystone of the Vistula line. The Russians already have driven across the river strength south of Warsaw.

Thus Hitler's whole Vistula front—his last great defensive line of the Reich—is in terrible danger. Once that goes, the Red flood surge against the German border.

It would be a happy coincidence—and one that could happen—Warsaw and Paris fell at the same time. What a staggering blow to Der Fuehrer!

OPA Sues Steel Firm

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11—Damages totaling $54,115 and an injunction against sale of iron and steel products at above-listed prices was asked by the Office of Price Administration in a federal court suit yesterday brought against the Atlas Steel and Supply Co. of this city. THANKS FOR THE LIFT, AMERICA!

All Over the World, Our Fighting Men Salute the Home-Front for "Backing the Attack" in the 5th War Loan Drive. The 5th War Loan Has Gone Over the Top!

You've attained every one of the 5th War Loan objectives—and then some! The overall goal, corporate and individual, was $16 billion; $20,639,000,000 was realized. The individual goal was $6 billion; $6,330,000,000 (preliminary) was realized. The "E" or "People's" Bond goal—the most important element in the individual quota, and the hardest one to make—was $3 billion; $3,036,000,000 was realized.

The American public has scored not only a resounding Victory on the home-front, but the greatest one to date!

For this inspiring demonstration of "Democracy-in-Action," our fighting men on all the far-flung battlefronts of the world give thanks for the lift. The spirit you have shown gives reassurance of support to those on the long and bloody road to Berlin . . . and Tokyo.

Every man, woman and child in America may well thrill with pride at the success of this unprecedented drive—the greatest war-financing operation the world has ever known. This includes the millions who "dug deep" to buy extra Bonds and the untiring volunteers who helped sell them—the whole cavalcade of America galvanized into action on a spontaneous voluntary basis.

But just as the battle continues with ever mounting fury, so we on the home-front must continue to "back the attack." As General Eisenhower has said:

"Satisfactory as is the progress of this battle to date, in magnitude it is but a mere beginning to the tremendous struggles that must follow before final victory is achieved."

"To this end we need every man, every weapon, and all the courage and fortitude of our respective peoples. The Allied soldier will do his duty."

Yes—and we on the home-front will do our duty, also. Let no man think that in such heart-stirring times as these, when our boys are facing their most crucial weeks and months ahead, that the part we play in buying Bonds is trivial compared to their earth-shaking deeds and heroic challenging of death.

Far from trivial, our home-front tasks are today more important than ever.

Encouraged by the example of what a united people can do when the cause is just, let us continue to "back the attack—buy more than before" until the day of final victory. And let us resolve not only to buy bonds to the fullest extent of our powers, but to hold them until maturity—for a better, a safer, happier world for all.

Keep "Backing 'Em Up" WITH WAR BONDS

News' Rally In Final Beats Jim's, 9-5; Paxsons Lose, 4-2

China Moves Into Second As Newsies Score 6 Runs In Final Frame, Now Third

Scoring the two declining runs in the sixth inning after Paxsons had tied the game 2-2, the Salem China made it evident last night that they still are a factor in fourth round competition by defeating Paxsons 4-2 to step into undisputed second place.

In the second game of the day the Salem News turned on the heat in the last frame and came from behind with six runs and win, 9-5, from Jim's.

The China victory throws the league into further chaos as four teams now are tied for third place with .500 ratings, the Pumpmen on top with a perfect record and the Potters perched in second place with three wins in four games.

The Potters scored all their runs in two splurges yesterday getting two in the first inning and two more in the sixth. Mutt Schaeffer worked the mound against Russ Morrison, who took over the China assignment when Dale Ritchie's injured finger kept him from tossing. Morrison sat the Paxsons down with five hits, while his mates were clubbing Schaeffer for seven.

Judging from the performance turned in by Bill Schaeffer, being in the Army doesn't hurt your batting eye a bit. The husky brother of the Paxson hurler clubbed two hits in three times at bat and one of the bingles was a home run—and by far the longest poked out this season. Schaeffer is home on Furlough.

Jim's stepped out in the second game to score all their runs in the early innings. Tagging Chet Brautigan for four of their eight hits in the first inning, Jim's picked up three big runs. Two more came in the second and fourth.

The News scored three runs in the fourth inning and had a rally stopped short. However, in the first of the seventh, still trailing 5-3, the News picked a few hits out of nowhere, and coupled with a walk and an error, six runs crossed the platter before the side was retired.

Dale Ritchie, playing second base for the Potters, fattened his batting average at Schaeffer's expense with two hits and two runs in a pair of official trips to the plate. He walked once.

World Series Broadcast Contracts Given Mutual

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Contracts have been signed for this year's broadcasts of the World Series. They call for exclusive transmission of the CBS network with the same sponsor who has paid the way the last five years.

This time it is hoped to be able to overcome difficulties encountered last year when descriptions of the games were not made available to our soldiers on an instantaneous schedule until the contest was a couple days under way.

Vienna Topples Twilight Tear From Turf Throne

Her majesty the queen of the turf, Twilight Tear, was knocked rudely off her throne at Belmont park, N. Y., when William Woodward's Vienna, a daughter of Menow with the blood of Sir Gallahad III in her veins, won the 65th running of the $15,000 Alabama Stakes. Vienna is shown in the above photo crossing the finish line three-fourths of a length ahead of Twilight Tear, the horse that was out for her 12th straight victory, a skin that has seen her come to the top of her class and become one of the greatest fillies in turf history. Both Hurlers, Pager and Ciotti, Turn In Good Performances

In a tight, interesting contest, the Columbians nosed out the Christian Endeavors, 3-1, for a Class B softball tour victory at Centennial park yesterday.

The other game, scheduled between the Athletics and the Parks, was awarded to Parks on a forfeit.

Both Pitcher Ciotti and Pager turned in excellent mound shows. Ciotti limited the opposition to just three hits, while Pager gave up six. Summary:

BROWNS WIN 10TH IN ROW, YANKEES DROP TO FOURTH

St. Louis Series Looms As Certainty, Both Squads Close

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Joe McCarthy's "world champions" tested in fourth place today, 9 1/2 games back and no longer a threat to St. Louis' bid for its first American league pennant.

When Denny Galehouse shut out the New Yorkers 3-0 yesterday, he drained most of the hope from the Yankee fans who had banked on a clean sweep of at least 3 out of 4 from the Browns to put them back in the running.

It was the Browns 10th straight victory, the longest string in the league this year.

New York skeptics who had waited for St. Louis to pull the ace-in-the-hole act were convinced Luke Sewell's talented crew was the most consistent club in the circuit and headed for a world series cut.

Galehouse, just rounding into form after a late start as a "Sunday" pitcher on part time from a defense plant, captured his fifth straight and first whitewash job at the expense of Ernie Bonham, No. 2 Yankee ace.

Boston remained hot for the weekend St. Louis series by taking a second straight from Chicago, 2-1, behind Emmett O'Neill.

Detroit shouldered New York out of third place by trimming Washington in a 10-inning night game, 3-2.

Myrl Hoag's single scored Russ Peters in the ninth gave Joe Heving his seventh victory and Cleveland a 5-4 shade over Philadelphia.</

THIS NORTH SIDE HOME IS IN A NEIGHBORHOOD YOU WILL LIKE AND IS OFFERED AT A PRICE YOU CAN AFFORD TO PAY!

Very good 8-room house with new hot water furnace, electric, and bath. There is a large kitchen, dining room and twin parlors with center reception hall on first floor; four bedrooms and bath on second floor. Nice finished attic. House is finished in oak. Nice large clothes presses. Large cemented cellar under entire house. Barn with storage space for three cars. Beautiful lawn and abundance of shade.

This house today would cost $10,000 to build it but, on account of the owner wanting to leave town, we have a bargain price on this property for a short time only of $7,000.

If this means anything to you, this is one of the cheapest properties I have ever offered. If interested, it will be necessary for you to arrange an appointment with me to see this property.
